

Joint Statement between Royal Mail Group and CWU on Current Dispute Negotiations

Royal Mail Group and the Communication Workers Union (CWU) are pleased to announce that the negotiators have finalised the details of a proposed agreement covering the matters under discussion which include pensions, pay, the shorter working week, culture and operational changes.

The proposed agreement will now be considered by the CWU's Postal Executive Committee next week. A further announcement with the details of the final agreement will be made in due course.

Ratification of the final agreement will be subject to a ballot of CWU members and approval by the Royal Mail Group plc Board.
